

Lethal Gift of Livestock

Animal gave farmers germs which gave hunter gathers werent immune to because the farmers lived with the animals which made them immune to the germs.

Hunter gathers lived in small groups. If a big disease makes way its into the village. They most likely die because it spreads between all of them quickly.

In civilization animals make more food but creates germs and disease spread more quickly. It's a 3 way connection.

Diseases are more likely to kill infected adult instead of children.

Some farming populations make it even easier for their own bacteria and it works to infect new victims
